

WESTLAND DISTRICT LIBRARY

Internet Usage Guidelines

Access is provided to the Internet on public computers by Westland District Library to enable customers to access the wealth of information available.

- While the Library will attempt to block access to Internet sites with explicit content, which may be considered to be objectionable or offensive, it cannot guarantee that users will not encounter sites with content which they find offensive.
- While the Library will assist children in the safe use of the Internet it does not accept responsibility for supervising that use. Parents and caregivers have the primary responsibility for supervising their children's use of the library, including the use of the Internet.
- The Library reserves the right to terminate any customer's access to the Internet if staff considers that the customer is behaving in an unacceptable way. Unacceptable behaviour includes viewing what is considered by the Library to be offensive or objectionable material, or acting in a way that might endanger the security of the Library network, or the integrity or security of any other network or Internet site.
- The Library has no control over and will give no guarantee as to the accuracy or reliability of information on the Internet, and will accept no responsibility for any losses or damage resulting from the use of this information.
- The Library cannot guarantee the security of any personal data or information transmitted using the Library public access Internet facilities.
- Any link which may be provided from the Library website to any other website does not imply an endorsement of that other website or its content by either the Westland District Library or the Westland District Council.
